

To know wisdom
and instruction: to perceive the words of understanding Proverbs

A liberal education is achieved by a guided study of man's entire gamut of knowledge, as contrasted with the pursuit of a single branch of knowledge which has a specific application.

Today, through the influence of the age in which we live, specialized bodies of knowledge swiftly expand and cleave, in a process not unlike the fission of microscopic organisms, into new and even more specialized fields, which again expand, through research, and again split. Thus, in this type of intellectual climate, the only method of acquiring proficiency and the only method of increasing still further our knowledge, is through specialization.

A specialized education, however, does not necessarily include the fundamentals required for an increased sensitivity, a broadened understanding of the factors underlying human experience, a spiritual and moral sense—the elements which, in the final analysis are the essence of the knowledge needed for preserving the human pattern. Specialized education may produce nothing more than an individual highly skilled in his chosen field, but one perhaps unaware of the role of man.

We believe that in order to develop one's full potential one must have a broad educational background before proceeding into a specific field of specialization. To this proposition and to educators everywhere, we dedicate this yearbook, The 1958 Venture.

Dear Seniors:

Your years of study in the Port Jervis High School are rapidly drawing to a close.

Your successful class activities have been many and varied and have contributed much to our school—scholastically, athletically, and socially.

I hope that the years have been happy and successful ones for you and that the members of the faculty and I have in some way helped you in preparing for what lies ahead.

The success of your future life will be of continued interest to us.

Sincerely,

Louis C. Horsman

To the Members of the Senior Class of 1958:

Your high school experience is rapidly drawing to a close.

To all of you I want to say that it is my hope that these years you have spent in our schools have been happy and worthwhile ones for you and our entire community. Happy ones because of the opportunities you have had to play and work with your classmates and worthwhile in the sense that your contributions to the community may exemplify a high standard of citizenship.

Your success and well being will always be of sincere interest to us.

Sincerely yours,

Ervin R. Fletcher

As a class moves through this six-year high school, it forms its own character. Although each class is different, each has certain traditional activities. Every year, among other activities, the junior class sponsors the school paper, produces a play and puts on a dance. This year's play was "Onions in the Stew". Members of the class also sold shakers and programs during the football season. The big social event this year was the Junior-Senior Dance, "Winter Fantasy". This was the first time a junior class had taken the full responsibilities of putting on such a dance. Next year's senior class promises to be a very successful one.

In order to strengthen its treasury for the junior year, the sophomore class put on a convivial social affair in November. It was a dance called "Turnabout Twin", and its proceeds overtopped all the predicted figures. One other thing that the Sophs did which attracted favorable attention was to buy those handsome corduroy class jackets.

After a late start in the fall, due to the influenza epidemic, the Student Council sponsored a dance in honor of the football players.

At the beginning of the basketball season, the council put out schedule cards for the benefit of the fans. Around Christmas time, a canned foods drive for the Salvation Army was the order of business. Over eleven hundred cans of food were collected. Throughout the basketball season, at home games, the Student Council supplied refreshments for the visiting teams and cheerleaders.

In the spring, the council plans to hold another dance. Also on the agenda are plans for obtaining a clock for the football field, and — the major project this year — a new canopy to put in the gym for formal dances.

In connection with our traditional Thanksgiving Day game with Middletown High, the council sponsored Port's Thanksgiving Day Queen Contest.

In all the Student Council's official acts lies the very purpose of the organization itself. It teaches the ideals, the labors, and the compromises involved in self-government—the basic premise of our way of life.

The creative urge is a basic one, and our yearbook, in addition to fixing in time the events and people of the school year 1957-1958, provides both an outlet and a touchstone for this urge. Here, the fledgling photographers, artists, journalists, advertising men, reporters, executives, and writers learn to channel and discipline their creative energies. Oftentimes, weeks on end are spent writing names to identify photos, or duplicating copy. Here students learn also how practicalities often must subdue originality and taste—for a yearbook is turned out under the pressures of economy, available space, materials and TIME. Above all, this is an activity dominated by time. The staff does its work after school hours, and deadlines fall close on the heels of one another in rapid succession. But when the work is done; when the conferences, the planning, the proof-reading, and the typing, the clipping, and the pasting, the cropping, the leg work, the money counting and ad soliciting all come to an end—then, the adviser and staff can only sit back and await your opinion. We hope VENTURE '58 will be one of your favorite collections of memories.

Ann Cook, John Romeo, Joe Curtis, Mary Ann Baker, and Russ De Vore as Ann Spencer shows them the correct form for typing copy. Copy Editor, Carolyn Romaine, reads the next copy to be typed.

Balancing facing pages is sometimes difficult, especially when the photos and blocks of copy don't permit cropping. Layout editor, Bill Kukelka, suggests alternate layouts to Joyce Stevens and Jack Kellam.

A number of staff members meet periodically to discuss the Venture's progress. Left-right: D. Goldman, L. Powers, B. Parsons, G. Murray, C. Cuddeback, Mr. Coler, M. Barth, R. Robbins, W. DiPietro, T. Stabler, J. Kellom, B. Kukelka, D. Cook, A. Spencer, D. Cherry.

The Science Club is an organization open to juniors and seniors who are interested in scientific scholarship, and who are science majors and honor roll students. The group aims at stimulating interest in science. Among the club's many activities along this line one is certainly worthy of special mention. This project is a television show planned, produced, and performed entirely by club members. It will appear on Channel Six, our local T.V. station. It is intended to bring science into the home, and to provide information as well as entertainment for the people of Port Jervis.

Russell Faiello last year organized a new club, in its second year, it shows promise of being one of our most valuable because its objective is the promotion of fellow feeling and cooperation among business office workers—a very important element of modern life. "Our objective," said Faiello, "is to train ourselves as future office workers, and to promote a professional attitude among ourselves in order to further close relations between employer and employee."

Several activities have been planned by the members. The club will make a field trip to IBM; each girl will observe in a local office at least once during the year; the club will publish an office practice newspaper at intervals during the year. The club will wind up its year with a banquet, at which time it will invite a guest speaker from the business world.

The officers are as follows:

Because of a lack of funds with which to operate, the Shorthand Club is in the process of getting reorganized this year. The club has plans to sell typing and shorthand supplies to students so that they can obtain them when needed in school. They also plan to visit an office, so that the students can actually see a secretary perform her duties. The club has already seen a movie, on this topic, entitled "The Secretary's Day".

Thanksgiving Day Queen

Each year the Student Council sponsors a contest to choose the senior girl we would most like to have represent Port Jervis High School at our annual Thanksgiving Day game with Middletown. The contest winner is named the queen at a school assembly ceremony, and the second and third place runners up are named her attendants.

They are honored in a field parade and post game dance.

This year the school chose Barbara Clark (left) as our queen. Pictured on the right with the queen are her attendants: Arlene Daly on the arm of the chair and Barbara Glover standing behind the chair. These girls embody our idea of the most admirable traits in high school co-eds.

Martian

Follies

The class of 1958 decided this year to have, in lieu of the traditional senior minstrel, a variety show built on a science fiction theme. The title, "The Martian Follies," explains the rather zarrre appearance of the cast shown in rehearsal above.

CHARLIE CUDDEBACK

A Lifetime of Teaching

This is the face of a teacher. Its lines, its expression, its intensity and purpose belong to Louise H. Blood. This spring, Mrs. Blood retires after forty-three years with the young of Port Jervis. With her goes some of our strength, for she was, above all other things, a leader—a planner—an organizer and doer.

Her classes and clubs had the quality of careful planning about them that was characteristic of all Mrs. Blood's projects. At senior class meetings she tempered enthusiasm with wisdom; at student functions she energetically contributed her own efforts; at teacher meetings she was often a voice of decision when such a voice was needed.

Such a person is Mrs. Blood, and such we are losing . . . by just so much we are diminished.

LESSON PLANS are given as much careful attention by Mrs. Blood as grading. Here, in the women's faculty room, she checks final plans for a day's work.

PLEASED WITH CLASS RESPONSE to her lesson, Mrs. Blood enjoys the conscientious teacher's ageless reward: the rapt attention of a group of learners.

PROGRAMMING A COURSE OF STUDY for a pupil with special problems is all in a day's work. Mrs. Blood's intimate knowledge of the pupil's ability, the changing school requirements, and of college entrance standards make an otherwise technical inquest simply an informal interview.

in civic matters, Mrs. Blood is a member of Scout Council and is a former Scout Commissioner. She was an organizer and adviser of Swing Inn, center. She served as secretary of the City Board. In addition, Mrs. Blood is a former and past president of the Community Club, presently the president of the Business and Professional Women's Club. That retirement has arrived, Mrs. Blood looks forward to a little more travel and homemaking along with usual town activities.

AT COMMUNITY CONCERT HEAD-QUARTERS, Mrs. Blood exhibits characteristic tongue between teeth frown of concentration as she helps launch 1958 drive for membership.

her desk bears evidence of Mrs. Blood's lifelong devotion to and community life.

VISIBLY MOVED on the occasion of a dinner in her honor, Mrs. Blood holds her husband's arm as they cut cake together.

*Games are non-Duso League.

This year, led by 10 of last year's veterans, the red raiders' basketball team compiled a nifty 15-4 record, finishing second in the Duso League with a fine 14-2 season record.

As the season opened, everyone looked forward to an exciting session of basketball. After winning the first three games, the red and black dropped a 63-61 heartbreaker to Liberty High. Although only the first loss in league play, it was the turning point of the whole season; the Indians were unbeaten after that upset, and they won the league title for their first time.

Strategy is important in any game. In football, strategy consists not only of learning new plays, but in knowing when to use each play. Coach Viglione presides at these skull sessions.

The end of August finds the varsity line hard at work toughening up in the pre-season workout.

ar's edition of the red raider football team was one. With practically no one back from last season, Coach Joe Viglione and his staff went together a real fighting unit. Led by quarterback Russ DeVore, guard Joe Curtis and center Bob Vecchione. All Duso representatives—this fine team, composed of seniors, compiled a respectable 3-4 record. In three of their four losses, the red men completely outplayed their opponents, both statistic-wise and spirit-wise, and lost in the waning minutes.

On September 21, led by Russ DeVore and Harry Boyd, the red men fought to a 13-13 tie with a tough Nyack team. A week later, in the first Duso game of the season, Port Jervis ran into Kingston High with their finest team in the school's history. Playing tremendously for a first early season experience and overall manpower with our team, and K.H.S. triumphed 38-6. Senior Russ DeVore scored the lone T.D. in this one. On October 12, the redmen fell again, this time to Poughkeepsie. Port Jervis was clearly the better team, for they "kept" all over the field, but lady luck had other plans. The second pass play gave the blue and white a touchdown. In this one, Rich Theodore went 40 yards for a touchdown, and Harry Boyd trapped a man in the end zone to complete the P.J. scoring.

On October 12 was the date of the second red raider victory over a very formidable N.Y.M.A. eleven. With everything going nicely, the raiders whipped the military boys 21-7. Romeo and Bruce Parsons both got their chances at the goal line. After a full month of postponements, the flu epidemic, footballs were flying once again. Port Jervis ripped Newburgh Free Academy 21-7. Marty Theodore played hero in this one, racking up two touchdowns. Bruce Parsons bulled for another. Then old lady luck struck again and we had two heartbreakers. In the first, East Stroudsburg took our measure in a fill in game 13-0. The following week Vincentian Academy got its kicks in also, winning 12-7. Once again Bruce Parsons, reliable full-back, crashed over for one touchdown.

Then, on October 28, came the big one. Playing before a crowd of three thousand, the raiders devastated the mid-dies at Wilson Field. Rich Theodore scored two touchdowns, Rog Gamo scored one, and John Romeo one—the final score: Port Jervis 27, Middletown 0.

An interesting bit of statistics is that Les Smith booted six extra points, while Bruce Parsons and Dick Theodore led the redmen in season scoring with three touchdowns each.

Everyone loves to win—to be on top—to be first in whatever he tries to do. Often the prize is not worth the effort, but still we try to win, and this is important.

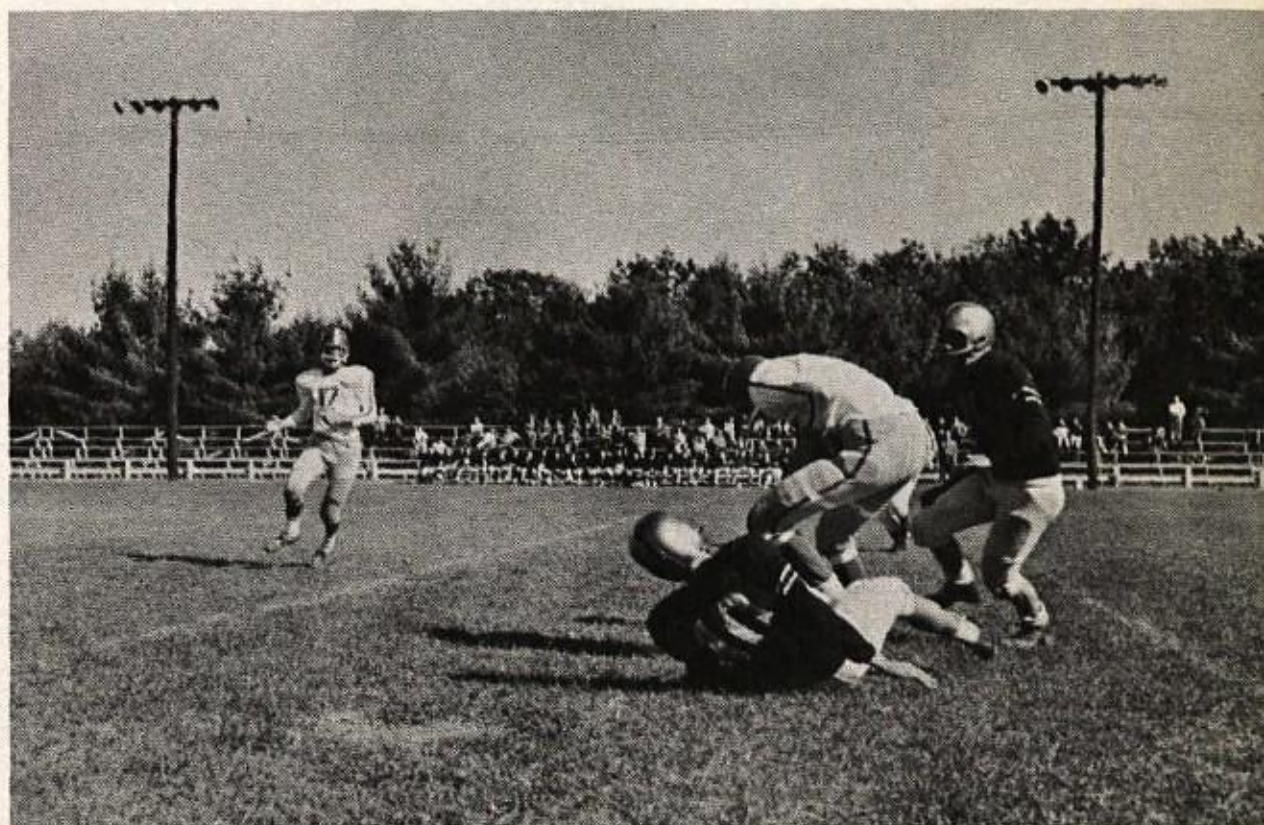

On a crisp, fall afternoon both students and townspeople turn out for a season game.

Mr. Viglione goes over instructions one more time with captain Russ DeVore before he returns to field during one of our night games.

RICH THEODORE

Port's agility at recovering the opposition's fumbles often brings the crowd to its feet. Here an unidentified Port player recovers a fumbled ball in the opposition's territory.

Baseball

"Play ball" is the cry, and Port Jervis High School figures to do very well in the Duso league this year. Led by a lot of veterans from last year's team, this year's is loaded at almost every position. Around the diamond it will be Alex Osowick at first, Marty Corcoran at second, Russ DeVore at shortstop and Bob Doss at third. In the green pasture of the outfield, Harry Boyd looks like a sure fixture in left field, while Tom McAndrew probably will make the big move to center field. The right field berth is wide open, but John Romeo and Bill Pepper seem to have the inside touch, depending on who's doing the pitching. Behind the inside plate, Frank Bell will take over to fill Vince Pagano's shoes, and on the mound it will be either John Romeo, Russ DeVore, or Bill Pepper doing the hurling for the red and black. This is Coach Ralph Zelno's fifth year at the helm of the Port Jervis baseball team, and hopes are high for the first season in many a moon.

Track & Field

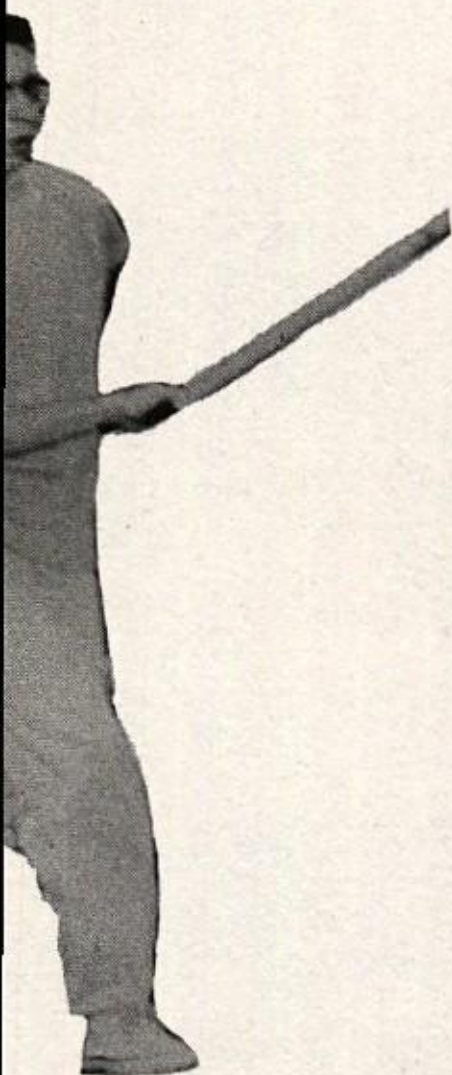

The track team promises to be a surprising one. Although the team has been the graduation of some of last year's top point-getters, on the whole things do not seem to be too different. The track team boasts quite a few outstanding events. Jerry Sauschuck, who looks like a sure bet to get 10 points for Shot and Discus, Rich Theodore in the 100 and 220, Roger Gamo in the 180 yd. dash, B. McCann in the mile, figure to take up the bulk of the scoring. Also counted on for a few odd points are Keith Startup in the quarter mile, Dave Goldman in the 400 yd. dash, R. DeVore in the high jump and John Riccardi in the pole vault. Admittedly this team is the underdog in a lot of meets, but with hard work they just might take home
